INVESTMENT UNIVERSE AND PHILOSOPHY

The fund MONACO CONVERTIBLE BOND EUROPE invests in European convertible bonds with an average delta of between 25% and 45%.

The management is discretionary and conviction based with a selection process that starts from the stock choices but also includes a macroeconomic analysis ("Bottom-up") and does not have as objective to replicate its benchmark. The fund does not use any synthetic structures.

RISK PROFILE

The risk indicator, based on past volatility, cannot cover all types of risks to which the fund may be exposed. It is possible that the past data used does not constitute a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The category associated with this fund is not a guarantee and can evolve with time. The lowest category is not synonymous with a "riskless" investment.

PERFORMANCE

Past performance is not a guarantee of future performance, nor is it constant with time and does not constitute in any case a guarantee of future performance.

MANAGEMENT COMMENT

Over the month of August, the fund posted a performance of +0.34% vs. +0.42% for its benchmark, i.e. an underperformance of -0.08%.

The Jackson Hole symposium took place last month. US Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell announced that the central bank intended to begin reversing its monetary easing measures later this year, although he did not give a precise timetable. The US economy continues to grow, as confirmed by the latest employment figures. As a result, several Fed members spoke out in August in favour of a complete withdrawal of bond purchases by mid-2022.

In relation to stocks within the fund, we overweighed our existing position with Nacon BigBen 2026 at an interesting price. We also invested in a new pharmaceutical convertible recently issued: Idorsia 2028 in CHF currency. We sold part of our position in Ubisoft 2024, which potential upside is rather limited. As a result, we increased the delta of the fund to 45.0% at the end of the month, in line with our benchmark.
