MANAGEMENT COMMENT

The U.S. 2-year sovereign rate was stable for the month at +0.19%. The Jackson Hole symposium was the expected event. As with the rate movement, there was no major news. The Fed reiterated its objective of full employment and the course of its future actions, first the tapering that has already begun on some assets and then the steering of reference rates. Credit premiums are stable at low levels, with issuers still refinancing at lower cost. The portfolio is currently evolving with a low credit duration after the strong retracement of premiums observed on this market.
