INVESTMENT UNIVERSE AND PHILOSOPHY

The fund MONACO EXPANSION USD invests in both private issuer and sovereign bonds in the "Investment Grade" category which are denominated in USD.

The management is discretionary and conviction based and the fund is diversified across sectors, ratings, interest rate sensitivities and seniorities.

RISK PROFILE

Lower risk/potential reward

Higher risk/potential reward

The risk indicator, based on past volatility, cannot cover all types of risks to which the fund may be exposed. It is possible that the past data used does not constitute a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The category associated with this fund is not a guarantee and can evolve with time. The lowest category is not synonymous with a "riskless" investment.

PERFORMANCE

MANAGEMENT COMMENT

In October, the ICE-BOFA 1-10 year US Treasuries index lost -0.50%. The US 10-year yield ended the month at 1.55%, +6bp compared to the end of September 2021.

At its last meeting, the US Federal Reserve kicked off the process of reducing its support measures for the economy, a process justified by the improvement in the economic conditions that will lead to the elimination of its exceptional bond buybacks by next June. The Fed has indicated that it will reduce its purchases of US government debt by $10bn from November, while cutting its purchases of mortgage securities by $5bn. The cuts to the programme will be deeper in December. Fed members also reiterated that the current high levels of inflation should be a temporary phenomenon, "largely reflecting factors that are considered transitory".

The fund remains underexposed to US Treasuries and posted a performance of -0.48% last month. We continue to maintain our diversification with corporate credit. The fund's duration remained stable at around 2.65, roughly 30% lower than its benchmark. This position has had a positive effect on the relative performance of the fund since the
