It is possible that the past data used does not constitute a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The category associated with this fund is not a guarantee and can evolve with time. The lowest category is not synonymous with a "riskless" investment.

MANAGEMENT COMMENT

Global equity markets ended the month of December with gains across the board, with the exception of China and Japan. In the U.S., the Nasdaq gained +5.5% and the S&P 500 +4.4%. Japanese equities lost -0.1% (Nikkei 225), China lost -1.9% (CSI 300) and emerging equities climbed +3.7% (MSCI Emerging). Europe (Eurostoxx 50) is also up +3.1%. On the fixed-income side, risk premiums in the Investment Grade category fell from 68bp to 58bp (Itraxx 5 years). Finally, risk-free rates fell sharply (the German 10-year fell from 2.45% to 2.02%).

The year ended with good equity performances in Europe, the United States and Japan, where indices were well above 20% overall. Of note was China's negative performance of around -10%, which mechanically lowered that of emerging countries to around 10% since the start of the year. Bond indices are also up on euro Investment grade ratings +8% (Ice BofA Euro Corporate Index), but also on High Yield ratings +12% (Ice BofA High Yield Index).

A chapter is turning, and all eyes are now on 2024. Predictions are always difficult, but what we can say is that, excluding exogenous factors, global growth should remain around 3%. Obviously, there will be major disparities between zones, but the resilience of activity coupled with lower inflation and interest rates in developed countries will provide support for risky assets and bonds. China, the big loser in 2023, could be helped by further stimulus and hopefully catch up with the economic stabilization underway.
